On Fear of the darkness

I was recently tickled to hear of the sheer cleverness of a little Braunstonite, now in Class 1. She wanted her bedroom door kept open at night so that the lamp on the landing could shine in. Her parents wanted her to keep it closed. "Well" she said defiantly. "I've got to have it open. Reverend Sarah said that God says 'Let there be light!'"

Most of us are afraid of the dark to some extent. Not necessarily the literal darkness of village nights and closed bedroom doors but the darkness that threatens from the edges of our consciousness and that streams malignantly from world events. Not all of us have the courage of a five year old to demand the light or the instinct to connect it with God.

We are living through a time when it seems that daily the darkness deepens, the shadows fall, the weight of human evil seems to grow; and even those who stand up for what is good find themselves assailed on every side. As I write this I'm thinking of the brutal, cruel murder of David Haines while in the Middle East on humanitarian work. He had gone to serve the people of Syria and Iraq, and his captors took him, held him, toyed with his hopes of freedom, and then killed him. I'm thinking of stolen children in Nigeria, the war in the Ukraine, the threats of violence or doom in the run up to the Scottish referendum. I'm thinking of broken political promises and biased reporting, of social injustice, of collapsing institutions… there are millions of reasons for fear. We look at human sin and violence and incompetence, and that gives us reason to fear. We look at natural disasters and diseases and we find more reasons for fear. And fear flogs us to self-protection. And self-protection drives us to action that might actually make things worse. (Wow. I bet you are glad you are reading this!)

It is indeed dark out there but there is a light if we will just open the door to let it in. Against the millions of reasons to be afraid there is one reason to hope and to have courage. The God of the cross and Resurrection says "Let there be light" And there is. And the darkness cannot overwhelm it.

Pax et lux, Sarah
NEWS FROM JETTY FIELD.

The work on the new kissing gate has been completed by members of the volunteer group. The area has been given a concrete base to make the use of the gate easier for wheelchair and pushchair users. The main field has been cut and we hope to give it another mow before winter.

We have a work morning on SATURDAY 4TH OCTOBER 9.00 a.m. until 12.00. We have set ourselves a challenging target and want to start tidying the conservation area. We would welcome as many people as possible to come along and give some time. We will also be working on the garden area if you would prefer a different challenge! The volunteers are a very friendly group of people and look forward to meeting new volunteers - young and not so young! Tools can be provided but please bring gloves and protective clothing! Basic tools such as rakes, secateurs and loppers are always useful additions, if you have them. Meet outside the allotment area at the top of Jetty Field just before 9.00 a.m.

The Dick Herne Braunston History Society.

I delayed submitting this article to the editor until after the talk by George Dickinson entitled "Canal memories of the last Braunston Bobby." Over 50 people heard a very interesting and humorous talk about George's approach to policing a village that he clearly loves. The talk was supported by a display of his personal memorabilia and pictures of his time in the police. Many people at the meeting talked warmly of George's style of policing and also their regret that we no longer have our own "village bobby".

The day visit to Bletchley Park is almost fully subscribed. It is on Saturday 8th November. Anyone still wanting to go contact Andrew Alsop 01788 890826 as soon a possible!

Our next talk the village hall is on TUESDAY 18TH NOVEMBER AT 7.30 P.M. The talk is entitled "The Jurassic Way". The speaker is Malcolm Deacon, someone who has given talks to us before and is always well received!
Jenni’s Jottings

I think Autumn has arrived, cool, cool mornings, sunny but shorter days. All the newspapers say that we are due to have a lovely October so let’s hope so. I love this time of year, the trees are beautiful in their new colours. I have been collecting conkers for my boating and spider hating friends - yes it really does work!

I seem to have had a very busy month volunteering which I love. Time with the Canal Society, also with the Canal & Rivers Trust, serving at the Braunston Bakes and not eating any of the cakes!!! I couldn’t believe how much bread and all the different cakes we started off with and I thought it would never sell, but believe me it did.

We are so lucky in this village - there is so much to do and be involved with. I hear that planning for the Community Cafe is coming along well and will be such an asset to the village. I for one can’t wait to eat the delicious cakes which will be on offer. Does it mean there will be no calories if it is for the Community???

I, along with lots of other villagers, went to a fantastic performance of Last Night of the Proms by Coventry Brass Band. Even a brass band hater like me couldn’t help but be moved by all the old traditional tunes. Many thanks from me to the organisers Peter & Brenda Hobbs.

I have an apology to make, many, many apologies for the lateness of this magazine, please don’t blame me or my fantastic team of distributors - our printers DARED to have a holiday! Normal service will be resumed next month.

I have persuaded my friend Julie Leadbetter to give me a ‘Quote of the Month’ so here is the one for October:-

Life is not about waiting for the storm to pass .... It’s about learning to dance in the rain!

Vivienne Green

Enjoy October everyone, see you next month

Beloved wife, grandmother, golfing enthusiast, and like many of her shots, sadly missed.

We think burial means celebrating the life someone has had and the things they enjoyed.

At Greenhaven you can have the burial you want, but at a fraction of the cost of a conventional one. And for those left behind, a beautiful woodland sanctuary where life goes on and memories linger.

The Braunston Show – Saturday 6th September

A show of firsts

We would like to congratulate:

- All the exhibitors who won a first prize in any of the 133 classes.
- Mike for entering the show for the first time, even though he has lived in the village for many years, and then winning a trophy.
- All the exhibitors who showed that Braunston residents are first amongst local villagers in terms of the quality of their exhibits according to the comments from those who visited in the afternoon.
- Anyone entering via our first on line entry system with the website.
- The cake bakers who entered in the first year that we had no size restrictions.
- The many new volunteers who spent their first Saturday helping at The Show.

Thank you to the local businesses that ensure we can organise a show each year. Through their generosity and villagers support on the day we continue to run a self-financing show.

BRAUNSTON ART GROUP
Following the success of the recent Arts and Crafts Festival, several of the exhibitors expressed an interest in forming an Art Group within the village. If this article generates sufficient interest, it is proposed that a painting group should meet once weekly, possible at the village hall. This is not an art class, but merely a group of like-minded individuals who enjoy painting in any medium in a social group. There is no criteria as to ability. For the group to form a minimum of 12 participants is required to keep costs down. Please contact Nick Strivens 01788 890764 if interested.
Continuing getting to know your Parish Councillors, I would like to tell you a little bit about me, Sandra Ashford.

Coming to live in Braunston was by accident, and certainly not design. My husband had taken up a job in Leamington Spa and was renting a property in Rugby. One Sunday afternoon we went for a drive and as we were driving down the A45 we noticed a lovely Church on the horizon. We followed the spire and turned into Braunston to be greeted by a very beautiful village. As we drove through we remarked how lovely it was and then we saw the "new homes" for sale sign and that was it. A quick look round and hey presto we were signed up. Of course I refer to Eastfields, but it is more commonly known to the villagers as "the old glue factory".

Ten years on and we are still here. Giving up a full time job and starting my own business has freed up more time, thus enabling me to join in with village activities, firstly the Braunston Players; you may have seen me on stage last year as The Fat Controller! I then joined the Parish Council in February of this year, became representative on the Village Hall Committee and also on the Steering Group for the Neighbourhood Plan.

I hail from York and have lived in Hampshire and Scotland and have worked in many industries, banking, financial services, estate agency and latterly in social media marketing.

If you see me around the village please say hi, or alternatively my details are on the Braunston.org page.

Together we can make our village even better than it already is.
